

Pass-porting to more collaborative working:

Objective: A fun icebreaker to show the breadth, reach and coverage of our collective network, reinforcing the continual need communicate and build contacts with our customers.

Task: We will endeavour to undertake a virtual voyage all the Countries in EMEA to reinforce our understanding of the breadth and depth of varied customer profile we serve. We shall speak to our customers to confirm a parochial phrase that we have discovered which is in common use in his or her Country, and confirm that the translated universal meaning is correct. Every time we meet a group (fortnightly) an individual, who volunteered in previous session, will describe which Country they have visited in terms of our presence and relationships we foster. Prior to the virtual visit to their chosen Country they would have researched a phrase that is particular to that society / people. I'm given some examples – try and seek the more obscure and amusing.

You must get the phrase validated by someone from that Country and name him or her.

Then come to our meeting armed with the passport, which would have been sent to you and fill in one of the passport pages as below. Once completed you will need to send the whole pack to the next person! Making sure it will arrive in time for the next meeting.
